RE: MUR 3774
American Defense Foundation, Inc.

Dear Mr. Braden:

This confirms our March 22 and 27, 1996 phone conversations concerning the American Defense Foundation's (ADF) clarification of some of its responses to the Commission's subpoena for documents and order for written answers. As we discussed, your February 20 clarification letter references attached bank statements that were missing from the original document production. However, those bank statements were not attached to the clarification letter. You agreed to provide them as soon as possible. These bank statements include the 9/93 bank statement for the American Defense Institute's (ADI) money market account (Riggs Acct. 76-110-679) and the following bank statements for ADI's operating account (Riggs Acct. 08-587-096): p. 3 of the 1/92, 2/92, 6/92 and 7/92 statements (these pages should include a balance summary and the monthly interest accrued), pp. 2 & 3 of ADI's 3/92 and 12.92 statements, and p. 1 of ADI's 9/93 statement. You also agreed to contact your client to attempt to determine what documents comprised its November 1992 direct mailing concerning the U.S. Senate runoff in Georgia and whether ADF's former intern Wes Anderson is related to ADF's former consultant, Curt Anderson. I would appreciate hearing from you on these matters by the end of this week.

Additionally, on March 27 you provided other information relevant to our request for clarification. Specifically, you stated that ADF's accountant, Mr. Gold, did not have copies of schedules supporting Part I, Line 1d of ADF's 1992 and 1993 Form 990 tax returns and ADI's 1992 Form 990 and Amended 1992 Form 990 tax returns, leading Mr. Gold to believe such schedules had not been filed with the IRS. You also provided me with the following addresses for Lisa Lundquist and Curt Anderson which you indicated could be their parents' addresses: for Lundquist [REDACTED] and for Anderson [REDACTED]

YESTERDAY, TODAY AND TOMORROW
DEDICATED TO KEEPING THE PUBLIC INFORMED

Moreover, in our March 22 phone conversation you confirmed that the McDaniels did not keep any personal diaries or calendars in 1992 and 1993 and that any remaining NRSC-provided funds not used for Military Voter Program direct expenses were used by ADI and ADF for indirect administrative expenses such as salaries, supplies, phone, postage, shipping and printing and not on other specific projects. If I have inaccurately stated any of the information you provided, please submit a written correction.

Thank you for your assistance. I look forward to hearing from you by week's end.

Sincerely,

Dawn M. Odrowski
